

Isaac Hempstead- Wright ~ Bran Stark

Isaac, Aimee and Art judging our 2012 Masquerade contest. Photo by JacMac.

Bran Stark is one of the most important roles in the show and Isaac has brought a maturity and depth to the character well beyond his own years. Bran has many of the most poignant and touching lines in the series and Isaac always delivers on the exact right note.

We were just a day away from announcing Isaac as a guest at TitanCon 2012 when the news came through that the shooting schedule had changed and Isaac, Kristian and Art needed to film a scene for season 3. But that did not stop Isaac from coming down in the evening and joining our Masquerade judging panel.

Please note that due to family commitments Isaac will only be attending our 3.00 pm panel entitled The Tragic Fall of House Stark, and our evening entertainment where he will once again take up judging duties in our Masquerade.

Kristian Nairn

Hodor!

Over the last three years Kristian has really grown to inhabit the role of Hodor with some truly great Hodoring, especially towards the end of season three with the echo well at the Night Fort and the lightning freaking him out while hiding from the wildlings inside the windmill. The character is now firmly established as a fan favourite if the amount of Hodor Tweets that get posted any time he appears on screen is anything to judge by.

Earlier this year Kristian appeared as Barnaby Silver in an episode of the fantastic BBC series Ripper Street alongside fellow Game of Thrones actor Jerome Flynn (Bronn).

Renowned locally and internationally as a DJ and electronic music producer under the name kharmonix, Kristian is a prolific homegrown talent.